How to Supervise People

Required skills every leader must have

You'll be able to:

- Unify employees into a smooth-running, productive team, despite differences in personality, background and age.
- Find the delicate balance necessary to effectively oversee friends and former peers.
- Create a positive environment where everyone can succeed.
- Identify difficult employees and handle them easily, appropriately and swiftly.
- Harness technology to facilitate better communication and performance.
- Give constructive criticism that won't be taken personally — by even the most sensitive employee.
- Originate project plans and set goals that your team will support.
- Control absenteeism and tardiness.
- Develop a keen sense of timing for taking corrective action or firing an employee — and know the legal implications of your decisions.
- Best of all, gain confidence and win the respect of your boss, peers and team members.

What is Your Role?

As a manager, you're the one in charge, but you know all too well your job description doesn't even begin to cover the many roles you actually fill. In today's world, managers and their teams have more complex relationships than ever before. A manager must be a friend, coach, boss and mediator. You're responsible for:

- Delegating
- Motivating and praising
- Delivering criticism and discipline
- Working under pressure
- Meeting tight deadlines
- Training new employees
- Organizing people, projects and schedules

Again and again, day after day

Regardless of your experience, you can always benefit from new ideas and skills that will keep you at your peak performance. How to Supervise People is a one-day seminar power-packed with solid skills to help you maximize your role as a manager and fresh ideas to motivate you and your team.

"This seminar presented new strategies to maximize employee performance for results."

Carol Harris
Director, Administrative/Labor Relations
MTA New York City Transit

"I was very impressed at the depth of subject content at this seminar; it was much more than I had expected!"

Richard Land
Area Sales Manager
Norwest Mortgage, Inc.

"Very refreshing ideas that I feel I can incorporate in my supervisory role as soon as I get back to work."

Shari Zwiebel
Clinic Manager
Torrington Medical Group

"Provided excellent overview of what is truly a life-long learning topic. Offered many positive insights and tips."

Joe Isaacs
Vice President
American Hospital Association

You'll receive a comprehensive workbook that will serve as a dependable reference and refresher long after you've attended the seminar.

This valuable workbook contains:

- Indispensable planning and coaching checklists
- A listening awareness self-test
- The "Ideas-for-Action" plan
- The Employee Commitment Assessment
- The Practical Planning Checklist
- Charts, guidelines and other checklists to help you continue to draw on the information you learn at this content-rich seminar

A Note
From Our Leader,
Fred Pryor

Dear Business Associate:

I'm not going to tell you just because we're in the training business we never have leadership problems. We're all human, and that makes us subject to a variety of behaviors.

For much of my life, I have managed others, and I can relate to what you must contend with as a leader today. It's one of the most challenging positions in an organization, and yet, in my opinion, it's the most rewarding.

Managing a happy and productive staff who work together smoothly to complete projects is not just a dream. It can be a reality for you — if you know the best way to handle the details.

We've made sure How to Supervise People gives you exactly what you need to be a cutting-edge manager. This is not Supervision 101 — instead, it's an enlightening, revitalizing and thoroughly enjoyable course to experience! We take great care to develop and present our seminars to provide critical, career-boosting information in a format that will interest and motivate you.

Sincerely,

Fred Pryor, Founder

P.S. I hope you can attend How to Supervise People. Remember, I personally guarantee your satisfaction. Put the techniques you learn in this seminar to work, and if you don't agree they help you significantly, we'll arrange for you to attend another one of our seminars or receive a full refund — hassle-free. That's how confident we are about the quality of How to Supervise People.

What You Will Learn:

This seminar will provide the spark you need to ignite a positive, productive day every day.

Overcome the early obstacles.

Successful managers recognize early on certain challenges will come up. How you choose to deal with them will have a critical effect on your relationship with your team. Such challenges include:

- Leading friends, while maintaining performance
- Leading older, experienced employees or younger, inexperienced ones
- Controlling technology to communicate with workers and clients
- Steering clear of common management traps
- Managing your time and stress so that you can put in your best effort

Get the work out. Good, well-respected managers are able to give orders and instructions that are easily understood and readily accepted. You can acquire this skill by:

- Creating a basic work plan
- Learning smart ways to set goals and assess productivity
- Making job assignments stick—and work
- Using listening skills to your advantage
- Mastering the challenges of a flex workplace

Create a positive environment. Employees want to work for a manager who respects their contributions and supports their goals. Create the type of workplaces that will inspire their best work by:

- Getting the most out of a diverse work team
- Helping employees see meaning in their work
- Supporting career development
- Adapting communication styles for today's work world
- Dealing with negative attitudes

Handle performance problems.

Top managers regularly assess employee performance and make changes when needed. What you will learn:

- Holding employees accountable for their performance
- Giving feedback that encourages employees to achieve their best
- Controlling absenteeism and tardiness
- Taking legal disciplinary action when needed

How to Supervise People

10 Tips You'll Take Home

1. How to provide meaningful praise.
2. The best way to improve the productivity of a worker who is upset by a past criticism.
3. What you can do to enhance your communication skills for first-rate effectiveness.
4. How new managers can make the transition and take charge smoothly.
5. How to feel comfortable leading friends and former peers.
6. The secret to keeping top performers at their maximum level without burning out.
7. How to get others to believe in your organization and view it as more than just a place to work.
8. How to increase departmental planning and decrease your hassles through scheduling.
9. The key to solving tough people problems and stimulating others to do their share.
10. How to become more organized and productive and, in turn, reduce your stress.

More benefits for you when you attend How to Supervise People

- Discover six ways to discipline and obtain positive results.
- Gain 10 good habits to help improve your listening skills.
- Learn four effective methods for giving clear-cut instructions.
- Identify the five most common traps encountered by new managers and find out how to steer clear of them.

Leaders Who Will Benefit from this Seminar:

New Managers

You have the title. Now be sure you've got the skills to back it up and surpass the expectations of your boss. Learn the right skills before you adopt the wrong ones.

Senior Managers

You haven't received any leadership training in quite some time, and you want to brush up on your skills. Take with you the latest techniques in managing that reflect today's work attitudes.

Mid-Level Managers

You certainly are not new to leading, but you're not quite where you want to be, either. Impress your coworkers and boss with a style that may become the benchmark for success in your organization.

"Non-Managers"

You are not considered a manager and you don't have the title — yet you are often called upon to manage others. Gain the leading edge in how to manage by taking this course. Whether or not you move on to an official leadership position, you'll streamline your work with the valuable ideas you'll learn.
